Pitcher's Sudden Death Causes Capital to Wonder How GOP Will Be Affected

Republican Senate Majority Leader Perley A. Pitcher Dies of Heart Attack in Albany Hotel

Caucus Next Week

Wicks, Thompson, Desmond and Feinberg Are Mentioned Possible Successors

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 21 (AP)—New York's legislature, facing the busiest half of its 1939 session, pushed lawmaking aside today to mourn the death of Perley A. Pitcher, 62-year-old leader of the Senate's Republican majority.

Senator Pitcher, a resident of Watertown who in 14 years in the smaller House had directed his party both as a minority and in its present dominant role, died unexpectedly of a heart attack in his hotel room here yesterday.

A few hours later both Senate and Assembly voted to recess until Monday night in memory of the veteran legislator whom Governor Lehman, in one of numerous tributes by state, city and party leaders, termed "a man of high ideals and rigid integrity."

His body was found lying, fully clothed, on his hotel bed. Nearby lay a note which Coroner J. Gregory Nealon said was addressed to Senator Pitcher's wife and directed disposition of his estate. The coroner declined to reveal the text of the note, however, pending authority from Mrs. Pitcher who was to arrive here today.

Because of the possible effect of the death on Republican control of the Senate, in the event of a split in the party ranks, speculation arose immediately on election of Pitcher's successors—as a Senatorial member and as a majority leader. His passing left the party with 26 votes, a one-vote majority and the exact number required to pass legislation in the 51-member Senate.

Wicks Is Mentioned

Prominently mentioned for the majority leadership were Senators Arthur Wicks, Kingston, who has frequently substituted in that capacity; George L. Thompson, Kings Park, chairman of the powerful Senate finance committee and dean of the smaller House; Thomas C. Desmond, Newburgh, chairman of the cities committee and a candidate when Pitcher was elected minority leader in 1937; and Benjamin Feinberg, of Plattsburgh, chairman of the judiciary committee.

Senate members indicated the position would be filled after a party caucus tentatively slated for next week.

Whether Governor Lehman would be requested to call a special election, or would do so in his own discretion, to name a successor from the 37th senatorial district, Jefferson and Oswego counties, also aroused speculation.

Minimum of 30 Days

While the district is predominantly Republican and a new senator would be expected to strengthen the party's senate majority, observers pointed to the minimum of 30 days which such an election must be advertised after the "call." The requirement would bring the election close to April 1, by which time legislative leaders have hoped to be nearly ready to adjourn.

Although all legislative activity

Favors Hearing

New Jersey Senate Head Would Have Hearing on Hague Appointment

Frenton, N. J., Feb. 21 (AP)—Robert C. Hendrickson, president of the New Jersey Senate, said today he favored calling a public hearing on the confirmation of Frank Hague, Jr., to the state's highest law court if the sentiment for an inquiry "continues to make itself apparent."

A public hearing on Governor A. Harry Moore's designation of the 74-year-old lawyer, son of the Jersey City mayor and Democratic leader, would be without precedent, Senate leaders declared.

The nomination of young Hague to succeed Thomas Glynn Walker of Kearny as a lay judge of the Court of Errors and Appeals was submitted to the Senate last night by the governor.

Budget Sentiment Split

Both Parties Are Divided Over Solution of Financial Problem and Statewide Sales Levy Gains in Favor, Albany Report Reveals Today

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 21 (AP)—Split sentiment in both parties over solution of the state's financial problem, with growing favor for a state-wide sales levy, was indicated today on the eve of a public hearing on Governor Lehman's record $411,682,122 budget.

Increasing support in a two per cent sales tax, estimated to yield $140,000,000, was expressed privately among legislators despite the views of some Republican leaders that a reduction of $26,000,000 in state aid to localities would be a "more satisfactory" course.

The hearing, slated to focus state-wide resentment on new taxes proposed by the Democratic chief executive, will be held as scheduled tomorrow (12:30 p. m., E. S. T.), while the legislature otherwise stands in recess for a week in memory of Senator Perley A. Pitcher of Watertown.

The recess, until next Monday night, was voted last night, a few hours after Pitcher, 62-year-old leader of the Senate's Republican majority, died unexpectedly of a heart attack.

The Republican leadership, ears attuned to state-wide protests directed chiefly at the governor's proposal to raise $26,000,000 by a $1 per $1,000 valuation tax on real estate, saw a reduction of that amount in state aid obviating necessity for such a levy.

Broadway Boy Suffers Concussion of Brain In Fall From Tree Hut

Matthew Kraus, 15, Falls About 15 Feet and Planking Lands Upon Him; Friends Carry Him Across Creek

Matthew Kraus, 15, of 61 Broadway was taken to the Kingston Hospital after suffering a concussion of the brain last evening as a result of the collapse of a hut which he and two other lads erected in three trees along the Rondout creek bank at Sleightsburg. Kraus is under care of Dr. D. S. Meyers who ordered X-rays taken. His condition today was reported improved.

Kraus with "Sonny" James Snyder of Newkirk avenue on Sunday erected the platform in three trees from driftwood along the creek. The platform was built in three trees on the side of the steep bank along the creek about half way between the old Sleightsburg ferry and the present vehicular bridge. Built against the steep bank the upper end of the platform was but a few feet from the ground while the lower end was about 15 feet from the ground. A crude roof had been placed over the platform and a stove was placed on the floor to give warmth.

Valley Electrical Meeting at Rifton Discusses Problem

More Than 140 Men Present at Dinner Held at Central Hudson Recreation Center; H. A. Warden Presides

More than 140 electrical men, distributors, contractors and dealers met last evening at a dinner held at the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. Recreation Center in Rifton. The purpose of the meeting, a semi-annual event, was to discuss wiring and lighting for future domestic and commercial needs.

H. A. Warden of Newburgh, president of the Hudson Valley Electrical League, presided. Following the dinner, Mr. Warden presented I. B. Dexter, general commercial manager of the Central Hudson, who welcomed the electrical men. Mr. Warden then introduced A. C. Tait of New York, representing the National Adequate Wiring Bureau, who spoke on the subject of "Adequate Wiring."

Mr. Tait outlined a six-point program to the contractors to help them in planning adequate wiring at any home, and emphasized the fact that it is not only a measure of safety and economy to promote adequate wiring, it is a sound investment for the home owner—because the adequately wired home is the most livable home. He pointed out that originally homes were wired for lighting alone but that today these same little wires, in many homes, are carrying electricity to run a refrigerator, a radio, a vacuum cleaner and numberless other appliances with the result that many homes have makeshift wiring which is unsafe, uncomfortable and uneconomical.

P. J. Moulton, of the World's Fair Committee, Electrical Utilities Exhibit Corp., New York, speaking after Mr. Tait, had as his topic "Electricity at the New York World's Fair." With the opening of the Fair only a few weeks away, his subject was of particular interest. He said that according to present expectations the Fair will attract the greatest crowd ever gathered to one spot—that from all corners of the globe and from all states of the nation will pour millions of people to see the "World of Tomorrow."

He brought out the fact that the electrical industry has invested nearly $1,000,000 to tell the industry's story in its two exhibits, The Forward March of America and the Electrified Farm.

To illustrate his remarks, Mr. Moulton showed a motion picture depicting the progress of construction of the Fair, explaining that the main electrical exhibit would show the contribution electricity has made to the progress of today by reason of a comparison of

Bund Denounces World Jews, Mocks F.D.R. and Cabinet

Slightly Built Jewish Man Tries to Reach Fritz Kuhn, but Storm Troopers Beat Him, Rip off Clothes

F.D.R. 'Rosenfeld'

G. W. Kunze Dubs President 'Rosenfeld'; Miss Thompson Is Set Upon

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—In a Nazi demonstration that filled vast Madison Square Garden, leaders of the German-American Bund stood last night under the sign of the swastika to denounce "international Jewry," some members of the Roosevelt cabinet, and any American alliance with European democracies.

While uniformed Storm Troopers marched intermittently inside the Garden—which at official estimate held 20,000—a moving throng of anti-Nazis, theatergoers and the merely curious, milled about in the streets outside.

About 1,500 police reserves stood guard over the area, while violence spurted up inside the Garden and out.

As Fritz Kuhn, national leader of the Bund, was concluding a peroration against Jews, Isadore Greenbaum, a slight, 26-year-old hotel worker, leaped upon the great stage and ran toward the speaker.

Beaten and Torn

Instantly, a dozen or more Storm Troopers set upon him, knocking him down and beating him as he held his head in his arms, his black wild hair flying.

A squad of police pushed the Storm Troopers aside, picked him from the floor of the platform and, holding him high above their heads, ran to an exit. Most of his clothing was torn from his body.

Later, he was booked for disorderly conduct and held in $100 bail.

Outside the Garden, 13 persons altogether were arrested in a series of fights involving the police—who refused permission of anti-Nazis to picket the Garden—and the followers and opponents of Nazism.

Miss Thompson Set Upon

The first disturbance at the meeting involved Dorothy Thompson, newspaper columnist, who had shouted "nonsense" during a speech by G. W. Kunze, the Bund's national publicity director.

Amid shouts of "sit down" and "throw her out," a gray-shirted Storm Trooper and two policemen started to hustle her from the building. Heywood Brown, another columnist, ran to her rescue, telling the police her identity.

She was allowed to remain upon her insistence that "American free speech" gave her the right to express disagreement with any speaker.

The most extraordinary police precautions in years had been made for the meeting and as it went on, for more than three hours, with parading, Nazi-saluting and band playing, the epi-

Final Orders

Gustave Elmer (right), national organization director of the German-American Bund, is shown with uniformed Bundsmen at New York's Madison Square Garden as he discussed with them final plans for a "Washington Birthday" rally of the pro-Nazi group. Police mobilized 1,500 men in the neighborhood to keep counter-demonstrators in order. Behind the Bundsmen is a portrait of Washington and the emblem of the group.

Former Gray Residence on Albany Avenue Will Be Remodeled; Expected to Be Ready by Autumn

As expected Rondout Lodge, No. 343, F. & A. M., voted Monday evening to move from its present lodge rooms in the Masonic Building, Broadway and Strand, to the Masonic Club on Albany avenue, adjoining the Governor Clinton Hotel. Similar action was taken by Kingston Lodge, No. 10, at its last communication.

The Masonic Club building is the former Gray residence and was purchased about five years ago by the two Masonic lodges for the purpose of later transforming it into a Masonic Temple.

With the membership of both lodges voting favorably on the project it is expected that the work of altering the building will commence shortly and that the new

8 Navy Planes Wrecked And Two Pilots Killed As Fog Traps Flight

Patrol Stationed at Pensacola, Fla., Runs Into Sudden 'Blackout'; Six Students Escape in Parachutes

Pensacola, Fla., Feb. 21 (AP)—Eight navy planes were wrecked and two pilots were killed when fog trapped a routine training flight last night.

Rain washed away the fog at dawn today, disclosing the full toll to officers of the Pensacola naval air station.

Six student fliers escaped by bailing out in the darkness in their first parachute jumps. Four pilots landed safely in southern Alabama.

Lieut. G. F. Presser, Sr., a Brazilian navy officer receiving regular training here, died when his plane crashed and burned at Corby Field, where land planes are quartered.

Found in Plane

Lieut. N. M. Ostergren was found in his wrecked and burned plane near McDavid, Fla., about 25 miles north of Pensacola. The log kept his fate a mystery until after dawn, when scouting planes took to the air for a search of the entire section.

Besides Lieut. Presser, another Brazilian officer, Lieut. A. C. P. Horta, was in the group. He leaped to safety.

No official comment was immediately available concerning the presence of the Brazilian officers.

A law approved by Congress last summer permits training of South American aviators in United States service schools. The measure left regulations up to the President.

Routine Flight

Nine advanced students and three instructors took off early last night for a routine after-dark flight.

Not long after they were aloft a soupy fog rolled in from the Gulf of Mexico, and the fliers were faced with the choice of hunting an airport that was not fog-bound or flying until their gasoline was exhausted and jumping.

All the abandoned planes save one crashed within 40 miles of Pensacola. One fell into the backyard of a residence at Myrtle Grove, a suburb. Another sank in Escambia Bay.

The search for Ostergren was centered in the vicinity of McDavid, about 15 miles north of here. Lieut. E. G. Osborn said he believed he saw another pilot bail out about the time he jumped and floated to earth in the area. Osborn's plane had not been found early today.

Mulrooney to Quit About March 1 for Another Position

State Correction Commissioner Sends Letter to Governor in Which He Tells of His Decision to Resign

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 21 (AP)—State Correction Commissioner Edward L. Mulrooney, administrator of New York's vast prison system, will resign about March 1, Governor Lehman said today.

The governor made public a letter from Mulrooney, named state commissioner of correction in 1936, in which he expressed "genuine reluctance that I have made by decision to relinquish the post."

Mulrooney said he would submit the resignation "on or about March 1 in order to assume a private post."

Accepting Mulrooney's decision, the governor wrote him that "I deeply regret that the state will lose your valuable services."

Speculation as to a possible successor to the $12,000 post mentioned Joseph J. Canavan, present chairman of the state parole board, most prominently.

Walter T. Brown, secretary to Governor Lehman, also figures as a possible successor to Canavan.

Mulrooney said he would become "mediator" for the New York City Hotel Association and its affiliated labor organizations in labor disputes within the industry.

Mulrooney, in his letter to the governor, said in resigning he was "motivated only by compelling personal reasons."

He expressed "deep appreciation" for what he termed the "whole-hearted support" given him by the governor both in his present post and as chairman of the state liquor authority in which he served from 1933 to 1936.

Lehman's reply indicated Mulrooney, in accepting his new position, will receive a considerably greater remuneration than that paid him in his state post.

"I deeply regret that the state will lose your valuable services," the governor wrote. "In your new undertaking, however, your income will be so greatly in excess of what you have been receiving or can receive from the

Anna Bondi Dies In 3-Story Fall at Wall Street House

District Attorney, Police and Coroner Are Conducting Investigation; Tragedy Occurs About 8 a. m.

Stories Conflict

Coroner Humiston Says He's Not Satisfied; Girl Suffers Broken Neck

The district attorney's office and the Kingston police department today are investigating the death of Anna Bondi, 20, who was killed in a fall from a third-story window at the Wassaic State School Colony at 153 Wall street, about 8 o'clock this morning.

The district attorney and the police were called into the case by Coroner Howard B. Humiston, who said he was not ready to give a verdict until all of the conflicting stories were investigated.

Coroner Humiston said he first received word of the girl's death in a telephone call from Dr. Elizabeth Parsons of Shelden Lane, who telephoned him that a girl had committed suicide at the colony.

Argument Is Reported

The coroner drove to Kingston and made a partial examination of the facts in the case. The coroner when questioned later said that when he reached the colony he had been informed that the girl had had an argument with one of the other girls, and had made up her mind to escape from the building.

Coroner Humiston said that the girl had made a dummy which she placed in her bed so that if anyone looked into her room they would be led to believe that she was still asleep. Then, after packing her clothes in a suitcase, the girl had gone to the attic.

Notifies Murray

Coroner Humiston said that after hearing the stories he decided to notify District Attorney Cleon B. Murray and the Kingston police department, and that a thorough investigation would be made before he issued a verdict in the case.

The coroner said that he expected to drive into Kingston again this afternoon when he would confer with the authorities and check on what evidence they had unearthed.

Suffers Broken Neck

According to the coroner the girl suffered a broken neck in the fall.

Coroner Humiston ordered the body removed to the morgue of W. Norman Comer on Fair street.

The colony was opened about two years ago and there are about 20 girls lodged there. The girls are hired out to residents of the city working for $1.25 a day, and are under constant supervision. These girls are sent here from the Wassaic State School near Poughkeepsie.

Attacks Holding Companies

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—Chairman Wheeler (D., Mont.) of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee said today he was drafting legislation to wipe out railroad holding companies. This proposal, Wheeler said, may be part of a broad "relief-and-reform" rail program which he and Senator Truman (D., Mo.) will submit to congress soon.

Election March 1

Cardinals Announce Officially They'll Gather March 1 to Elect Pope Pius' Successor

Vatican City, Feb. 21 (AP)—Cardinals at the Vatican announced officially today they would meet in conclave March 1 to elect a new pope.

They previously had indicated they would start the conclave February 28, with voting to begin the following day after Cardinal O'Connell of Boston and the two South American prelates arrived.

The Vatican announced, however, that the Cardinals decided the opening ceremony would be March 1. Voting consequently will begin March 2. All the 63 Cardinals are expected to attend.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Gloucester, N. J.—A voice informed Policeman William Fowler over the telephone: "This is Henry B. Wallace." "So what?" demanded Fowler. "I escaped from jail three hours ago," the voice said, "and I just wanted to let you know I'm coming back."

He did. Grateful police put Wallace, who had been arrested on a disorderly conduct charge, back in the makeshift cell in the basement from which he had escaped.

Then they added a new charge—jail breaking.

No Dinner

Seattle—H. B. Griffith went for a walk without putting out the fire under a pan of beans.

When he returned, four engine companies, two truck companies and a couple of fire department battalion chiefs were doing it for him. The only damage was from smoke.

Sacrilegious Thief

Chicago—Mrs. Elizabeth Footers, 58, went to the Holy Name Cathedral to give thanks for having finally obtained a job. While she knelt in meditation, she reported to police, someone stole her purse containing $6.

Dutch Buy British

Amsterdam—Contract for 20 British-built motor-torpedo boats for use in the North Sea and the Dutch East Indies has been signed by Dutch naval authorities.

The railroads purchased less fuel in 1938 than in any year since 1933.

Trap Is Set for Rat; Woman Catches Skunk

FORT WORTH, TEXAS.—Mrs. B. F. Cloud set a rat-trap and caught a skunk.

The housewife set the trap in the attic of her home, and ran upstairs with a broom to finish the job, when she heard a telltale commotion in the attic. The half-grown skunk was too much for a woman, however, and she called her grandson to kill the skunk.

24,000 'COUSINS' IN FIGHT FOR FORTUNE

Seek Share of $20,000,000

PHILADELPHIA.—Some 24,000 "cousins" are clamoring anew for the $20,000,000 "snuff fortune" of a little old lady in black, Mrs. Henrietta E. Garrett.

They are back in the running for a share in her estate after a dozen surprise arrests among a group of claimants that for a time held the rail positions.

The fortune was left by her husband, Walter Garrett, who died in 1895. The money was $7,000,000 then, snowballed to $17,000,000 while she lived and rolled up $3,000,000 since.

The wealthy widow died in 1930 at the age of 81, after neglecting for 35 years to make her will "at once" as her husband instructed in a letter written before his death.

"I would not like it if what I have worked long and hard to accumulate should be squandered by your or my sisters, cousins, aunts and uncles," he admonished.

But the close-living widow paid no heed. She died as she had lived—in an unpretentious red-brick house where her only companions for a quarter of a century were a servant or two.

She made no formal will. Under a hastily scribbled note to her financial adviser, a paltry $62,500 was distributed.

There were no close relatives to mourn at her funeral.

Nearly seven years later Isaac Newton Sheaffer, a wallpaper merchant in Newark, Del., came forward and claimed Mrs. Garrett as his mother.

He and a group of supporting witnesses introduced family and church documents to prove that the young Henrietta Sheaffer bore a child before her marriage to Garrett.

Sheaffer, declaring he was that child, claimed the entire estate.

At one time or another, a dozen relatives of Sheaffer testified at the prolonged hearings conducted by William B. Davidson Jr., Philadelphia attorney appointed by the court as special master to determine—if possible—who was entitled to the estate.

The testimony was questioned all along the line by Deputy Attorney General Thomas J. Minnick Jr., seeking to get the estate for the commonwealth of Pennsylvania by escheat.

Seven Trips to Altar Equal Only 5 Husbands

BERKELEY, CALIF.—Mrs. Muriel Eldridge-Barringer-Burg-Hoppe has made her seventh trip to the altar here. Her matrimonial log reads something as follows:

First married to aviation lieutenant who was killed in a crash; married Hollywood scenario writer; divorced him and married third time—marriage annulled because husband's divorce decree was not final when married; remarried the scenario writer; divorced him and married fourth husband; discovered this marriage was not legal because her own divorce decree was not final; straightened out this complication and remarried this husband, finally divorced latter and married fifth husband.

NYA Discusses Job Applications

The following is another in a series of articles in the servant problem submitted by the NYA:

It is a well recognized fact today when jobs are scarce and workers are many that it is the person who is best able to sell himself that gets the job. Though we have said that in the field of household employment the demand far exceeds the supply, this the supply of attractive well trained workers.

In addition to thorough training for a position, you must be able to create such a good impression on the person hiring that he will want to hire you. You have particular skills you want to sell and whether you are successful depends on your ability to be convincing and at the same time pleasing.

Personal appearance has a great deal to do with the success or failure of your efforts. Your appearance, gives indications of your neatness or untidiness. She can judge to some extent whether you have an orderly mind and would be neat about your work. Hair, complexion, hands, nails, dress, hose and shoes are good criteria. Aside from these, a neat appearance gives one a sense of poise and confidence that is lacking in the person who appears dowdy. There is a certain lift to the head, and sure step in the person who is appropriately dressed which the overdressed, fussed up person does not have.

In choosing your clothes for an interview, consider only those dresses that are simple, clean and in good condition. From these choose one whose color is particularly pleasing. A wash dress is far more appropriate than a fancy silk dress. Whichever one is chosen, make sure that it is clean, if cotton or no spots if it is silk, that all buttons and snaps are on securely. The length should not be extremely short but within the limits of the current fashion.

Shoes should be polished and stockings mended. It is not advisable to wear expensive or any but a slight suggestion of make-up. The hair should be neatly combed, simply arranged. Once these personal details are taken care of, you will be able to forget yourself and talk readily to the potential employer.

At the door of the house, state the purpose of your call and sit down only when you are invited to do so. If the arrival of the lady of the house is delayed, it is an act of courtesy to arise when she enters. Again give your name and state the purpose of your call.

Never show that you are timid though you feel it for an air of confidence is the thing desired. Fidgeting with gloves, hair or jewelry shows that a person is ill at ease. Sit quietly with your hands folded in your lap.

When you sit down try to sit so that you can face the woman directly without glare from the window striking either of you. The interviewer should think of this herself.

Answer her questions in a soft but distinct voice and if you had previous experience tell her truthfully how long you have worked, giving the names of former employers and their phone numbers in case she cares to call them.

Concerning your religion, you need not offer this information unless it is asked for. Sometimes it is asked for so that the housewife may know how to arrange for attendance at church services.

The personal interview serves first to introduce the employee to the employer and at this time each should be critical of the other. There is just as great a chance that the applicant may not find the situation attractive as that the interviewer may not find the applicant suitable for hiring.

Definite information as to the family's eating and living habits should be given. The presence, number and ages of children in the home may be the determining factor in whether the applicant will want the position. It may be the baking of bread or the large laundry that will decide the girl against taking the job.

Above all, be honest in the statement of your capabilities. Do not claim skills that you cannot perform. If the interviewer likes you, she probably will be willing to spend some time in training you if the tasks are important ones to her.

If you are engaged to fill the situation, ask when to report, be punctual or if you are kept from coming, notify the woman immediately.

The interview may terminate without assurance that the position is yours. Leave your telephone number, so that the housewife can reach you as she may have other applicants to consider, or she may wish to examine your references.

It is instead of the personal interview or as an introduction you choose to write a letter of application, it is the most important that it is done correctly.

Take time to compose the letter, and write it on plain white paper in ink. The contents of the letter depends sometimes on the information asked for in the newspaper advertisement. But otherwise give those facts you think necessary. Where you heard about the opening, your age, a statement of health, experience, references and qualifications are the usual facts covered. Ask for a personal interview, and give your telephone number. End your letter with "Respectfully yours," "Very truly yours," or with another appropriate ending, and your full name.

The points that should be covered in the interview were stated in an earlier article which may be obtained by calling the local N. Y. A. office.

The third annual business management conference for egg and poultry marketing cooperative is announced for August 31 through September 1 at Penn State College.

DANGEROUS SERVICE

by GRACE ELLIOTT TAYLOR

The Characters
Peter Mallone: Adventurous journalist.
Petronella: His charming young sister.
Tony Lance: British agent, in love with Petrel.

Yesterday, Peter gets hurt in a riot. Not realizing that, Tony asks him to get important papers from Rev. Howard, fatally injured in a plane crash.

Chapter 30

'Everything Is Changed'
Rene, dying, exclaimed Petrel, "tell me quickly. What has happened?"

"He has crashed in the desert; near the Fayum Road, in flames. They have taken him to hospital. I was going to try to see him, but I met Peter. He said he was being instead. That he would bring me news. I do not want to see poor Rene die. He was a hard young man, but he was very beautiful. What will become of Fleur von Cratz now?"

Since the root of her sorrow was mainly selfish, Petronella found it easy to comfort her.

"If he dies, there will be some provision for you. Or perhaps a similar job. Fleur, you have been very discreet and very valuable. But he may not die. I'll go and see Rene. Peter has a broken wrist, and I believe he has concussion. If they have any sense they won't let him leave the hospital again tonight."

Sure enough, she was admitted when she had given her name. She would see Peter first, then poor Rene, if she was allowed to see him.

"Your brother ought never to have come here alone," said the nurse reprovingly. "He was wandering, quite wandering. Sister found him in the private ward, with the young aviator, who was just waiting to be taken into the operating room. He is terribly injured, and should have seen no one. All I can think is that Mr. Mallone did not know what he was doing. He collapsed the minute he got outside into the corridor so it was too late to send him home."

"I am conscious now," the nurse smiled a prim, disapproving smile.

"Yes. He keeps asking for you. Shouting for you is nearer the mark. I hope it will quiet him to see you for a few minutes."

"I'm very sorry. I'll speak to him. I'm afraid he has been a difficult patient," she apologized. "I couldn't keep him horizontal for ten minutes, so you've worked miracles to have kept him for quarter of an hour. As they entered the room, the nurse smiled again."

"It took three of us to get him back, four times in succession. Now we have taken his clothes, and we look the door. He seems to have a dislike for hospitals. His temperature is high. He must stay."

Petronella saw Peter lying glowing up at them. He looked very angry and red in the face. She smiled, in gratitude, upon his nurse.

"Peter, I hear terrible accounts of your behavior!" he said up. "There's nothing wrong with me. I've got to get out. Tell that woman."

"Perhaps I'd better leave you for a few minutes," said the nurse, stiffly. Peter sank back, exhausted. "Thank heaven you've come. You've got to get me out of this."

Incredulous
"But, Peter, you're ill!"
 "A mere blip on the head. There's something I've got to do, that's really important."

"Be honest," she implored him. "Do you feel you could be sure of doing anything? Of course not! You'd pay out! Dear old boy, you must believe them." Peter's head rolled sideways.

"The ghastly thing is, I believe you're right. I might fail. He looked miserable. "You must find someone else to get it for me," he implored urgently.

"Get what?"
 "Come closer. I can't shout it. Rene was carrying important information. He was just about to hide a despatch in the sand. Near a large boulder, close to the plane. That was all I could tell. He was very weak, poor devil. Get Masters to go, instead of me. Impress upon him that it is secret. Tell him to take the case to Tony Lance, in room 317 of the 'Continental.' He'll be waiting. They are the orders he has been expecting."

"Tony?" Petrel cried, incredulously. She stared at Peter's flushed, excited face. Tony had headed him a job like that!

"I see," she said slowly. She sat up. "What are you thinking? Don't let anyone with him. He couldn't help it. He is tired everywhere. But there is no danger. No one here dreams Rene is anything so efficient as a spy. I should just have seen a journalist going out to see the wreckage. So will Master. Peter was proud of his commission. Was he right? Was that all there was to it? But instinct clamored in denial, and in rising indignation against Tony. Even if he believed it to be a simple job, what right had he to send Peter, with a broken right wrist, and a battered head? He must know that in situations like this, there was always a possibility of danger. There was another thing. He knew how afraid, and unwilling she was that Peter should get mixed up in anything to do with the secret service. The idea was horrible. Peter was not the right type. He still acted first, and thought afterwards. Why, she would be safer than he would. Petronella's thoughts halted. She sat for a moment, considering the idea which had flashed into her mind. She accepted it. She would go herself. She would see what this job entailed, that Tony had given her brother. It was fair to Tony, fair to herself. For the last three days, she had lived in the fullest happiness she had ever known. If she had been in a fool's heaven, she wanted to know. Going through life, she had met many women who were fools. Wasn't it likely that she was a fool about Tony Lance?

As Callous As That

SUPPOSE the men who had followed them across the desert had discovered that Rene carried papers. They might guess he would not risk dying with them in his possession, if he had strength to hide, or destroy them. They would determine, somehow, to search the wrecked plane. In that case, when Peter arrived, well, he might have returned with worse than a broken wrist! He might not have returned at all! Had Tony willingly intended to let him run a risk like that? Her brother? Peter, who was half her life? If he had, he did not love her as she understood love. She would rather know, now, if he was as callous as that. Was it even possible that he had meant, all along, to use Peter? Suppose Tony loved her as far as he was capable of loving anyone, but with his eyes open to her usefulness? Suppose he meant to leave her again, with a vague excuse, or without a word, as he had done twice before? She could not believe the evidence till she had proved it. But she was already terribly afraid. He had never admitted her to his confidence. His plans had been vague. Often, he still insisted she would be better off without him. Only this afternoon he had said that the happiness of individuals must not be allowed to matter much. If they had to be sacrificed to his purpose, well, they had! Suppose he was a fanatic about his job. She shivered. Was this what he had been forecasting, when he said that?

"Honestly, Petrel, there can't be any danger," whispered Peter. "No, dear. I don't suppose there is," she soothed him.

As she left the hospital, she saw the car which had taken them to Fayum this afternoon, standing waiting. Waiting for Peter! Would he agree to take her, without question, if she told Hassan that she was going instead of Mr. Mallone?

It would be safer than hiring another taxi, whose driver she did not know, who would certainly have to be bribed, before he would consent to take an Englishwoman into the desert, at night.

She went to the car, motioned to Hassan to open the door for her.

"Find the plane that crashed this afternoon, whose lights we saw coming back from Fayum."

But he blinked at her, and shook his head. "I'm waiting for another man, not lady. Too many Bedouins in the desert, to be safe. He had his orders. Petronella took a quick glance at Hassan, and decided against bribery. She did not believe he was an ordinary driver. He would refuse. All she could do was wait a taxi, withdraw."

Then, Hassan stopped her. "You are Miss Mallone, is Master Mallone not coming?"

"He is very much too ill. He is in bed, in there."

"Then I will drive you. I am sorry, Mademoiselle. You come instead. Everything is altered," he asked. "Everything is changed?"

"Yes, everything is changed!" She jumped in and he closed the door upon her.

"Drive the desert road, without lights," she told him.

Under the deep blue of sky, and the brilliant stars, Petrel sat taut with apprehension. It was weird and lonely, leaving the lights of the city behind. The desert looked ghostly and unreal in the bright moonlight. Her solitude, behind her silent driver, felt heavy. She had to curb her imagination. She had a job to do. If Tony had asked Peter to do it for him, surely it must be comparatively safe? She was a coward to shudder like this, and start at the sharp black shadows of scrubby plants, and rocks on the sand. There was no one out here except herself and Hassan and the Camel Police, who would be guarding the plane. The desert at night, she told herself, was strangely beautiful. But she could not manage to relax her clenched hands and tense muscles.

If only she wasn't such a fool, and coward, she prayed.

The Mousetrap Controversy

It would not be amiss at this time to bring up that much discussed question as to the authorship of the proverb concerning mousetraps, which has become the most quoted and most popular of all American proverbs and credited by some to Emerson and by others to Elbert Hubbard. It may be that this homely philosophical observation owes its wide popularity to the many controversies which have developed as a result of this conflict of opinion and it would be a pity if, by setting the question once and for all, its popularity would wane. But in the interest of literary history, the truth should be told at any risk.

The proverb as it is best known, and which is definitely credited to Elbert Hubbard as its author, reads as follows:

"If a man writes a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mousetrap than his neighbor, though he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."

But years before Elbert Hubbard was born, Ralph Waldo Emerson wrote in one of his journals, under the title "Common Place":

"I trust a good deal to common sense, as we all must. If a man has good corn or wood or boards or pigs to sell, or can make better chairs or knives, crucibles or church organs, than anybody else, you will find a broad, hard beaten road to his home, though it be in the woods."

It is hardly probable that Hubbard knowingly plagiarized Emerson's thought though it is most probable that he had read the Emerson version and had forgotten it entirely until his subconscious mind played its trick on him, bringing to the fore a few of the words that had been lodged in a crevice of his brain these many years, with which he framed the mousetrap proverb that brought him the publicity he loved so much. And so, with all credit to the mousetrap and sympathy for its victims, let us consider that controversy at an end.

Visitor—Who's the new workman?
 Foreman—Boss's son.

Visitor—Oh, very commendable! Starting at the bottom and working up?

Foreman—No, started at the top and got shoved down.

Look upon your job as your business, financed by your employer, with a guaranteed profit to you, even though he takes a loss.

Wife—I've just read an article about Electricity, dear, and it says that before long we shall get everything we want by just touching a button.

Husband (sadly)—It won't do us any good.

Wife—Why not?
 Husband—Because nothing would ever make you touch a button. Look at my shirt.

He was discussing the people round about with his old landlady.

He—They seem kindly enough people.

Landlady (sniffing)—You don't know them yet.

He—Oh, come, they're not bad. Why, the chap who's got a little workshop down the road was asking about you today. Said you'd been ailing a lot lately. Is he a relative of yours?

Landlady (sharply)—No, he's the undertaker.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

HOLLYWOOD—Most interesting chap I've met in a long time isn't a movie star, or director, or writer, or executive. He isn't a glamour guy, and you won't find him in the bright spots where the candid cameras are clicking. He is a business man.

You say "business" in Hollywood and right away you think of "prosaic" and "hardboiled." J. S. Rex Cole is certainly not the former; he is the latter—when he has to be—because his particular business is managing the financial affairs of movie people whose aggregate annual earnings average hundreds of thousands of dollars.

He started 14 years ago—he's the town's longest-established man in his field—when Warner Baxter turned over his accounts to him. Baxter is still on his client list, with about 29 others like Constance Bennett (herself no dippy doodle as a business mind), A. Edward Sutherland, Henry King, Ronald Colman, Zoe Akins, Bob Montgomery, Tay Garnett, Ernst

Lubitsch, Herbert Marshall, Grace Moore.

He knew nothing about Hollywood when he came, but he did know about business—two degrees from the University of Chicago, five years in the Orient, three spent in business. He'd heard about Los Angeles, so he came to see if it were all true.

He saw the three great industries: citrus fruits, oil and motion pictures. He chose the latter as offering least competition in his field, and settled down to a job for which, till then, there was absolutely no competition: that of No Man in a Yes Man's Paradise.

Now a talk with a man like this ought to produce reams of copy about the foibles of Hollywood's famous—but remember that this Rex Cole is a successful business manager. If his clients ever do those little foolish things that make good stories, you won't hear about them from Cole.

But he can—and may—tell you stories of plain and fancy chiseling, sharpshooting and conniving that he has witnessed in his years of watchdogging stellar treasures.

"THE set-up in Hollywood is perfect for crooks, will always attract them," he is sure. "Here we have a community where the collective earning power is staggering; the people earning these huge incomes are artists, hence often given to impulsiveness, often to emotional decisions."

Cole says No to the stars as well as to the people who would victimize the stars. It's in his agreement with them that he will make them live within prescribed budgets. They "take" it, too, and agreeably.

Next year, 1940, the next agricultural census will be taken. Census enumerators will visit farms in the United States to gather information on crops, livestock, farm acreages, and other useful facts.

Bohemians Eat Raw Meat

Arthur Dumond, popular butcher, was amazed today when a certain member of the Clinton Ave. Men's Club slipped in to purchase an entire leg of beef and to request him to reserve a similar amount of meat for him daily, until further notice.

Before he recovered from his astonishment, the customer had paid for his purchase, shouldered it and slipped out of the store.

We have it on good authority that his purchase was for the famous "BOHEMIAN TWINS," who are quartered somewhere in the vicinity of "Epworth Hall," corner of Clinton Avenue and Liberty Street.

Junior League Hears Of City Medical Aid

Miss Rose M. Feeney, supervising nurse of the Department of Public Welfare, addressed the members of the Junior League Monday afternoon at the regular meeting held at the home of Mrs. Charles O'Reilly on Albany avenue.

Miss Feeney spoke on the medical outline of the Welfare department, the services rendered to those on home relief and under the care of the W. P. A., and the services that can be expected from the medical department of the Department of Public Welfare, and gave a thorough explanation of the relief set-up in Kingston.

The talk by Miss Feeney was particularly of interest to the Junior League members in that it showed how closely the League Bureau works in conjunction with the city welfare in dispensing sick-room supplies to those who could not afford the additional necessities.

After the usual business meeting a social hour was enjoyed with Mrs. John Krom and Mrs. John Corbitt, Jr., assisting the hostess by pouring.

Sorositis Studies Burbank

Sorositis held its regular weekly meeting Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Vernon Hull on Smith street. Mrs. Cora E. Drake had charge of the current events program which was devoted to a reading from the New York Times of a commentary column by Anne O'Hare McCormick. Luther Barbark was the study subject for the afternoon with the hostess using the book, "Harvest of the Years," by Willbur Hall, as the basis for her interesting discussion of Burbank's life and experimentation. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Henry C. Mullong with Mrs. Grover C. Lasher reporting on "Conservation."

Arabia, Topic at Olympian

In the study of "Arabia Minor," Arabia was begun last evening at the meeting of Olympian Club held at the home of Mrs. E. V. K. Schutt on Mountain View avenue. Two plays and one book review were given on this subject which will be continued for another session. Miss Winifred Sullivan spoke on the "Arabian War for Independence" and based her paper on the book, "With Lawrence in Arabia," by Lowell Thomas. "The Seven Pillars of Wisdom" was given a comparative review by Mrs. Harry Karmagan and Miss Frieda Ray gave an interesting account of "Arabian Origin." The place of the next meeting will be announced at a later date.

Engaged to Wed

New Paltz, Feb. 21.—The engagement of Miss Norma Lillian Bernstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Saul Bernstein, of Northabe Farm, New Paltz, and also of New York city to Dr. Eugene Saberski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Saberski of Tarrytown, has been announced by her parents. Miss Bernstein attended the Packer Collegiate Institute and was graduated from Ethical Culture Teachers' Training School. She is a niece of Louis S. Posner, former New York city commissioner of education and former state mortgage commissioner. Dr. Saberski is a graduate of New York University and of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons in Edinburgh, Scotland. He is practicing in Tarrytown and is on the staff of the Grasslands and Tarrytown Hospitals.

Baptist C.E. to Rehearse

Members of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church Christian Endeavor Society will meet this evening at 7 o'clock in the church hall for a rehearsal of "The First Parsonage Meeting" which will be presented on Sunday. Other practices this week will be held Thursday following the prayer meeting, Saturday afternoon and again Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. All in the cast are urged to attend every rehearsal. Wednesday evening the society will sponsor a Washington's party in the church hall. "The First Parsonage Meeting" is the first in a series of 15 programs to be presented by the Baptist members. The program will be open to the public and a silver offering will be received.

St. Remy C. E. Meets

On Sunday night the St. Remy Christian Endeavor Society held its annual weekly meeting and discussed the attending of the Washington Birthday party at Port Ewen on Wednesday night. Also during this meeting it was decided that certain members of the club could furnish cars enough for all the members wanting to attend the party. A collection was then taken, and the meeting was adjourned. The next meeting will be held the first Sunday of next month, March 5. The club president requests all the members to be present.

Miss Cordis Honored

Miss Florence Cordis was given a surprise birthday party Sunday evening at her home on Lindsley avenue. The guests attending were Judge Joseph M. Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. ## Lutheran Church to Start

Series of Lenten Services

The series of Lenten meditations annually held in Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church, Livingston street, will begin tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. The general theme of the devotions will be "Here is Christ by Men Rejected Whom God has for Peace Elected." The theme of the first meditation will be "Disclaimed by the Leaders." The musical program: Prelude—F. C. Hansen; Children's choir—No Greater Love—von Berge; Offertory—Abide With Me—Grote; Postlude—Benediction—Weyl; George Weill, organist.

Would Preserve Eagles

Washington, Feb. 21.—Senator Walsh (D-Mass.) wants to make it tough for persons trafficking in bald eagles. He proposed sentences and fines for persons convicted of taking, selling, purchasing or transporting the birds. The eagle, Walsh said, is the "emblem of sovereignty of the United States" and should be preserved from extinction.

MODES of the MOMENT

By Adelaide Kerr

For rumbas and romance in southern zones an American designer fashions this dance frock of shocking-pink mouseline de soie splashed with big white circles. The dress, which has a halter bodice and flounce-bordered skirt, was displayed recently at a fashion show at the Ritz in New York.

KIDDIE FROCK. 4 MAIN PIECES!

MARIAN MARTIN

PATTERN 9989
For little darlings made of "sugar and spice and everything nice," Marian Martin suggests this absolutely new, especially lovely, Easter-party dress. The evidence is before you that Pattern 9989 is the easiest of frocks to make, since it consists of but two major parts. Then there are the sleeves—cunningly puffed—or an open-cape type that gives the most mischievous imp and auerick look! This pantie-frock has the style details most in favor, too, ribbon and button trimmings, yoke effect, tucks or caters just below, and inside darts for waistline interest! Pattern 9989 may be ordered only in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6 requires 3 yards 35 inch fabric and 2½ yards ribbon.

Mexicana Adds That Smart Touch

PATTERN 6317

Mexico, land of excitement and color, served as inspiration for these fascinating designs for linens. Bright prints from your scrap bag form the easy applique patches while simple embroidery adds the finishing touches. You can turn out a delightful tea cloth, towel or scarf quick as a wink. Pattern 6317 contains a transfer pattern of 4 motifs averaging 5" x 8", inches. Patterns for applique patches: materials needed: color schemes: illustrations of stitches. To obtain this pattern send ten cents in coin to the Kingston Daily Freeman, Household Arts Dept., 250 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

Francis Willard Meeting

The Ulster Park Women's Christian Temperance Union will hold a Frances Willard meeting at the home of Mrs. S. T. Van Aken, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Roll call will be answered with items from the life of Frances Willard. An offering will be taken and all members who have not paid their dues are asked to do so at this meeting. Mr. George Berens will be the leader. Visitors are welcome.

Home Service Practice Day By Day A Joyous Philosophy

Rise Above Petty Living

The end of the day—a trying day for each of them. But these two who greet each other so happily have a philosophy of living, constantly practice it. They don't let the day's annoyances mar precious evenings together. "As it is not one swallow or one fine day that makes a spring, so it is not one day or even a short time that makes a man blessed and happy," said Aristotle, famous Greek philosopher.

Let your daily guide be his description of the philosophic person: he willingly helps others, but never feels malice, forgets injuries, does not speak evil and "bears the accidents of life with grace and dignity."

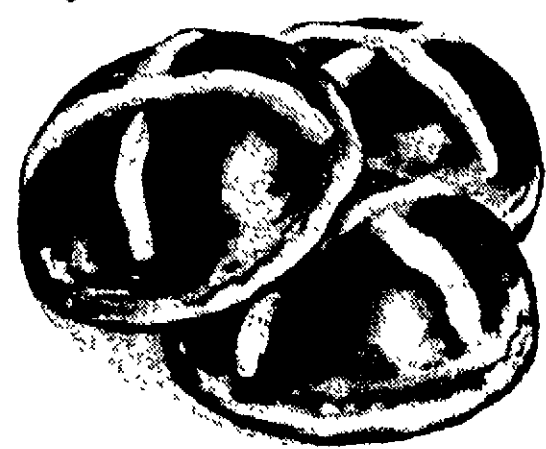

Everyone can have a fuller life through inner strength. Is the message of philosophic thinkers past and present. As for happiness, our own Kathleen Norris says, "the materials right in our hands at this moment are its ingredients." Let philosophy show you how to live. Our 32-page booklet gives you the teachings of great philosophers such as Plato, Epicurus, Marcus Aurelius; modern thinkers—Emerson, Bertrand Russell. A guide to a fuller, freer life.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of PHILOSOPHY: A GUIDE TO HAPPIER LIVING to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 625 8th Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Dewey and Dodge Make Sparks Fly

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—A give-and-take duel between District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey and the man he succeeded in office, William C. Dodge, made verbal sparks fly at today's session of the James J. Hines policy racket conspiracy trial.

The district attorney seemed serious as he opened his cross-examination; Dodge was smiling. Under questioning, Dodge said he heard in 1927, while he was an assistant district attorney, that there was a vacancy in the Magistrate's Court and he desired the job.

Dodge sharply disagreed when Dewey referred to Tammany Hall as a political "institution." Dewey went on to question Dodge about his friendship with Hines.

"Would you characterize it as the relationship of a mother to a son?" asked Dewey.

"Not ever having been a mother I can't say," replied Dodge.

Even Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., joined in the laughter, but Dewey was more serious than ever.

Under further questioning, Dodge said he could not recall ever having said anything bearing on a mother and son relationship, and Dewey then produced Grand Jury testimony of July 27, 1928, and read Dodge's statement that his friendship with Hines was like that of a mother to a son.

Vagrants Are Sentenced
Sergeant Schoonmaker and Officer Hoeltzer of the New York Central Railroad police picked up six hoboes at West Park Monday evening. The men arraigned before Justice of the Peace Benjamin Slight of Port Jervis were given 10 days each. Five of the men: Peter Novik, 41; Edward Martin, 40; George Quinlan, 41; James Cahill, 35, and Jerry Cronin, 42, had no home while John Jones, negro, gave Albany as his home.

Surprise Ending
York, Pa., Feb. 21 (AP)—Police sped to an industrial section when a night watchman at a factory telephoned that a man was prowling around an adjoining plant. The officers spied the prowler, advanced cautiously, and nabbed him. He was the plant's night watchman.

Entire Market Sold Off Monday

A ruling by a Pennsylvania court Monday concerns a question of national-wide interest these days. The Dauphin county court ruled that Pennsylvania's chain store tax is void in that it is confiscatory and violates the uniform taxation clause in the state constitution. The tax was graduated from $1 for a chain of 500 or more stores, theatres or gasoline stations. It was passed in 1937 to allow an increase in salaries for teachers in fourth class school districts. American Stores Co., one of several companies affected, had 1,770 stores in Pennsylvania prior to the passage of the law and their tax last year amounted to $700,000 or 51 cents a share on the company's common stock. Governor James indicated that the ruling would be appealed to the state supreme court.

As a part of Prime Minister Chamberlain's policy of appeasement toward dictators, trade agreements appear to be playing a major role. It is stated that an attempt to negotiate with Soviet Russia will be part of the plan and a British secretary will visit Moscow and other northern capitals next month.

Steel operations for this week are scheduled at 53.7 per cent of capacity, as against 51.2 per cent a month ago and 50.4 per cent in the same period last year.

U. S. Rubber on Thursday will advance tire prices 2 1/2 per cent, according to a lead from Firestone Co.

New Haven had estimated gross of $6,437,000 in January vs. $5,811,851 a year ago. Indicates operating profit as against loss of $174,662 in January 1938. With transactions totaling 639,000 shares, the whole market sold off Monday, changes being the largest in some time. Industrials down nearly three points, being down 2.77 in the Dow-Jones averages, closing at 142.74. Rails lost a full point, to 29.55 and utilities declined 0.70 point, to 21.73.

President Roosevelt's statement at the week-end regarding the possibility of another crisis abroad and a fresh lot of war rumors, with reports of movement by the French and Italians, are credited with helping unsettle the market and traders were inclined to retreat. Averages closed at the lowest point for the day. Commodities, with the exception of grain, were weak.

Foreign markets were quiet, with a tendency toward weakness. Some net income reports for 1938 include Blaw-Knox, net of $115,601, or 11 cents a share, compared with net in 1937 of $279,692, or $1.78 a share. Parke Davis, net of $8,639,955, or $1.76, vs. net of $9,068,201, or $1.85 a share. Sterling Products, $2,741,362, or $5.31 a share vs. $2,016,213, or $5.28 a share. Simonds & Saw & Steel, $357,003, or 71 cents a share, vs. $1,738,528, or $2.18 a share. Woodward Iron, $532,889, or $1.97 a share, vs. $1,177,512, or $1.41 a share.

A drop in rail traffic, with minimum manufacturing profits, gave Pullman net income of around $2,300,000, or 60 cents a share, in 1938; earned $12,275,950, or $3.21 a share in 1937.

Lehigh Valley had net of around $60,000 last month as against a loss of $188,494 in January 1938. President Kerr said.

The national average retail price for gasoline on February 1 was 13.11 cents per gallon, lowest since January, 1935. Year ago the average price was 14.28 cents a gallon.

Admits He Burned Home
San Jose, Calif., Feb. 21 (AP)—Edward F. Murphy, San Jose janitor held on an arson charge, said today through his attorney "a man has as much right to burn his home down as he has to tear it down." Murphy admitted to Justice C. W. Moore that he burned his home February 1, but claimed he had the right to do so as it was not covered by insurance. Justice Moore ordered Murphy held for trial.

To Ease Crisis
Damascus, Syria, Feb. 21 (AP)—The Syrian Nationalist Party agreed today to form a new government, easing the crisis which started Saturday with the resignation of Premier Jamil Mardam Bey. The party's central committee voted to take power again and to seek an accord with France in the dispute over French failure to ratify the 1936 treaty for Syrian independence which caused the crisis.

Import Bank Continues
Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—Over the protests of Republicans that the action might result in loading this nation into war, the House voted today to continue the functions of the export-import bank to June 30, 1941. It passed and sent to the Senate a measure extending the bank, and the Commodity Credit Corporation, to that date. The bill also would raise from $500,000,000 to $900,000,000 the amount of securities the credit corporation could have outstanding at any time. Earlier, the Senate banking committee approved the same legislation.

Milk Dealers Get License For Plant
A milk dealers license has been granted to the Yellow Pine Dairies, Inc., a corporation which contemplates erecting a creamery at Kerhonkson. It was learned today that the Yellow Pine Dairies, Inc., is a stock corporation, incorporated under the laws of the State of New York, with a capital stock of $20,000, consisting of 3,000 shares of a par value of $10 per share.

Officers and directors are George M. Hornbeck of Kerhonkson, president; Herman Quick of Accord, vice-president; Joseph J. Verry of West Shokan, secretary and treasurer, and Fay Blanchard and Hugh Kelly of Kerhonkson and Ellenville are directors.

The corporation plans to erect a concrete block building 40 by 75 feet in size, one story high. Construction is expected to start soon so as to have the plant in operation this spring.

The funeral of Agnes Smith Capuzzo, aged 53 years, wife of Walter Capuzzo of Ashokan, who died very suddenly Sunday morning, February 12, of a heart attack, was held at the home of her sister, Mrs. William Davis, at Olive Bridge, last Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The services were conducted by Elder Mason and other members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, to which the deceased was a devoted member. The house was filled with relatives and friends and floral tributes were many and beautiful. Burial was in the family plot at the Ashokan cemetery.

Clintons, Saints Victors; Redeemers Show Power Upsetting Comforter Five

In the opening games of the second half of the Church League last night on the Y. M. C. A. court, Redeemers, Clinton Avenue and St. Mary's emerged the winners.

Clinton Avenue had an early time sinking Port Even 18-13. Clinton Avenue took the lead at the start and never lost it. The team showed some of the old form that in the past has put them in the championship. With Herbert Clark back in the lineup they proved they will be one of the teams to be reckoned with before the second half is settled.

White Myers and Cowboy Egan each got seven points to lead Clinton Avenue. H. Clarke got six for Port Even.

The St. Mary-Presbyterian game was a thriller all the way from the opening gun with St. Mary's coming out on top 25-23. With Ray Schneider, high scoring league leader, in the lineup, the St. Mary's team was plenty fast. Jim Albany was high man for St. Mary's with 11 to his credit, and Ed Whiston was the star for the Presbyterians with nine.

The revamped Redeemer outfit proved to be all that was expected and walked off the court with an easy 27-17 win over the first half champs, the Comforters. Charles Sock was the hero of the night for Redeemers, getting 16 points, almost as much as the entire Comforter team, and at the same time helping Tommy Maines throttle the Drake-Ramner combination to five points between them.

Score at end of first half—Redeemers 16, Comforter 5. Fouls committed—Redeemers 6, Comforter 10. Referee—Van Ethen.

By DEWE MIDDLETON

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—If you think things haven't changed in the fishing and hunting business since the last time you took a bamboo pole and a bent pin and brought home a mess of our funny friends, you'd better take a look at the Sportsmen's Show.

The show is a paradise for the well trained and well needed hunter or fisherman. In addition to the gathering exhibits there is enough local color to make the most die-hard New Yorker sing a torch song for the "wide open spaces where etc."

There are enough Indians to stock a movie lot and a sizable and fragrant collection of animals and birds. The latter are housed in cages and the mountain lion, who gets a bath out of seeing the spectators knocked out with his howling.

Just to show you how the cost of living has gone up we talked to one of the fellows selling for a rod and reel outfit. He pointed to a chair that looked remarkably like the old hot spot up at Sing Sing and remarked you sat in it and took big game fish like blue marlin and tuna and that it cost a mere $100.

There was a rod and reel stand in a shop in front of the chair. The rod was a real rod, you know, the kind that cost $145 and the reel $110. The rod has two speeds and a fly line that couldn't be used on a reel that wasn't a reel.

"The whole thing including a line and reel will cost you about $100," said the salesman. He emphasized the you so we want away from there.

Others were selling the following—curing little fellows who got small and old—one of the fellows was advertising a fishing camp up in Maine.

His name is Henry Red Eagle and he is an Algonquin. He pointed to a bird in a cage and said it was a New York bird. He said it was a New York bird and it was a New York bird and it was a New York bird.

"That James Fenimore Cooper started all this," he said. "We're supposed to hop around and yell or we're not the real thing. It makes me sick."

Ridgers Defeat Leonard 35-31

With C. Neff and Beck scoring 10 and nine points to lead them, the Stone Ridge basketball team defeated the Leonard of Kingston City League, 35-31, over the week-end, and now are ready for their clash Friday night with the High Falls Freeman.

To date the Ridgers have won 15 out of 19 games and hope to extend their string against the Freeman, who are set on victory too. Indications are that the contest will be packed with thrills.

Madden Smother Kingsmen At St. James Court 36-9

Last night at St. James court the Kingsmen were trounced by the Madden Aces, 36 to 9. It was the fourth straight win for the Aces. Joe Madden was high for the Aces with 16 points. Jack Buchanan scored five for the Kingsmen.

The Score

Aces 36—Madden 9. 1st: El. A. 10, 2nd: Joe Madden 10, 3rd: Maroon 10, 4th: Olney 9, 5th: Jim Madden 9.

Kingsmen 9—Jackson 4, 2nd: McGowan 4, 3rd: Buchanan 1, 4th: Stalter 0, 5th: Buchanan 0.

Boxing Fans Attracted By the Moore-Ketchuck Match for Friday Night

Since the announcement in The Freeman of the boxing card for Friday night at the municipal auditorium, 3500 fans have been talking a lot about that five round match between Eddy Moore and Charlie Ketchuck.

Of course, all that the patrons of the Amateur Adirondack A. A. have to go by is concern. Ketchuck is his record, which includes two victories over Moore. Ketchuck is a Binghamton High School athlete, who loves to fight, and who has beaten some of the best Simon pure heavyweights in the business.

Moore is the star from George Gainford's New York stable, who beat Moogy Marchese, now a professional boxer, and Charley Perry, right here in the auditorium, and boxing fans are on his side to the extent that nothing need be said concerning his ability.

This metropolitan 180 pounder, leading 32-26, fouls committed, 14, Chicago, outpointed Andre Morano, 2, Referee, Johnson. Time of halves 20 minutes.

BYSTANDER DODGES HORSE AT RALLY

A passer-by is shown in a narrow escape from hooves of a mounted policeman's horse outside Madison Square Garden, New York city, where the German-American Bund was holding a "Washington's Birthday" rally. Police kept crowds of counter-demonstrators moving to forestall bombing threats and other disorders.

TUG-OF-WAR WITH FLAG

A counter-demonstrator outside the Madison Square Garden where the German-American Bund was holding a rally engaged a mounted policeman in a tug-of-war over an American flag. The demonstrator was carrying the flag which the policeman tried to take from him. New York police stationed 1,500 men about the garden after announcements of counter demonstrations.

Bund Denounces World Jews, F.D.R.

thems from the platform against Jews thundered ever harsher.

Cheers and Boos

Mention of the names of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin of Detroit; Representative Martin Dies (D-Tex.), chairman of the House Committee investigating un-American activities; Senators Borah and Nye, brought applause, while hisses arose in great roars when speakers called the name of Secretaries Perkins, Hopkins, Morgenthau, Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, and Attorney General Murphy.

There was much criticism of Roosevelt administration activities, but the most direct reference to the President himself was made by Amze, who called the Executive "Roosevelt." There were boos and derisive shouts from the crowd.

"International Marxist Jews" and "international Jewish financiers" were blamed by various speakers for America's entrance into the World War, and for the depression.

What America Needs

"What America needs is a return from Democratic misrule to the Republican principles for which George Washington fought."

The rally was held for the announced purpose of honoring Washington. Upon the stage there was a vast painting of the first president, flanked both by American flags and by swastikas. In the first parade of the swastika was carried first, American flags bobbing on behind. As the quadron reached the stage, a blue spotlight played from high overhead and the troops were given sharp orders in German. They stood rigidly against the stage backdrop during all the hours of speaking.

Again and again there was marching—by storm troops and girls in white dresses, and the speech-making was interrupted periodically by blasts from a brass band.

Kuhn, bulky in his full uniform regalia, with a black Sam Brown belt across his chest, was the last speaker. He asserted that Jewish Communists were "slimy conspirators," and denounced particularly the sale of American airplanes to France.

This, he shouted, was "secretly maneuvered through the department presided over by (Secretary of the Treasury) Morgenthau."

At the end, some—but not all—of the audience stood stiffly at the Nazi salute, arms upraised, palms extended, as the last parade of the storm troops wound down the aisles of the Garden.

Morgan, Tired of Vandals, Will Keep Key 'Under Mat'

For the ninth time since it opened for business Morgan's restaurant on Cornell street was broken into some time Monday night, and considerable damage was done by the thieves to the cigarette machine, the cash register, a large piano and a weighing machine from which the money was extorted. About $1 in cash was obtained from the machines and 15 packs of cigarettes taken. Entrance was obtained by forcing a side door, and after the thieves had broken into the machines to obtain what money they contained they left by a rear door. Mr. Morgan when seen today said that hereafter the "key will be left under the mat."

The burglary was reported to the police department and an investigation is being made. Another burglary reported to the police today was that of the Socony gas station at Broadway and East Chester street where a rear window in the station was broken open and entrance obtained. The cigarette machine was broken into and about $2.50 in cash taken. Cigarettes were also taken and some $1.25 in change that was in a tin box.

It was Born with a Great Record!

MERCURY 8

PERHAPS no new car has ever had the built-in assurance of rightness the Mercury 8 enjoys. It was built in an established plant, to established principles, by time-proved quality methods.

It takes the proved Ford V-8 engine design to larger size, with sturdier parts and more power. It takes the Ford time-proved chassis design, and gives it extra inches of wheelbase. It adds something of Lincoln-Zephyr's style and roominess—and it sets up, almost overnight, a brand new value among motor cars.

It is Ford-built extra value, on an even bigger scale. It is big in passenger space and in luggage space. It is rich in style and in appointments. It is quiet and extremely comfortable. Its power compared to weight is great, yet it is almost child's play to drive.

STYLE LEADERSHIP—New standards of beauty for the lower medium-price field.

95 H.P. V-8 ENGINE—Brilliant performance with good economy.

HYDRAULIC BRAKES—Easy-acting—quick, straight stops.

116" WHEELBASE—127" SPRINGBASE—Passenger and luggage space equal to that of many cars much higher in price.

UNUSUAL SEAT WIDTH—Three people ride comfortably both front and back in Sedans.

TRIPLE-CUSHIONED COMFORT—New flexible roll edge seat cushions, soft transverse springs, four hydraulic shock absorbers.

STABILIZED CHASSIS—No front end bobbing or dipping. Level starts, level stops, level ride.

SCIENTIFIC SOUND-PROOFING—Noises hushed for quiet ride.

$934.00 IS THE DETROIT DELIVERED PRICE of the Mercury 8 Town-Sedan (State and Federal taxes extra). The Mercury 8 is also available in three other body types...

Delivered Prices in Detroit (State and Federal taxes extra) are as follows: Sedan, $934; Sedan-Coupe, $934; Sport Convertible, $994.
